CITY COUNCIL.

The Water Works Scheme Shelved for Another Week.

At the regular meeting of the municipal council, held last evening, there were present His Worship Mayor Fell, and Councillors Higgins, Pearse, Grant, Coughlan, Vigelius, Barnard, Styles and Braden.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

A COMMUNICATION

was read as follows: From the City of Vancouver, inviting the Mayor and Council to attend the celebration at that city on July 1st. Accepted.

E. & N. RAILWAY.

His Worship reported the result of the interview between the Mayor and Council and Mr. Dunsmuir regarding the extension of the E. & N. Railway into the city, as already reported in THE TIMES.

Coun. Higgins moved seconded by Coun. Grant that whereas this council has heard with pleasure the report of His Worship the Mayor to the effect that Mr. Dunsmuir, President of the E. & N. R. Co., has announced that it is the intention of his company to construct across the harbor of Victoria, a railway, foot and vehicle swing bridge, which shall be free to the public forever, and to bring the terminus of the said railway within the limits of the municipality; be it therefore resolved that the thanks of this council be tendered the railway company through Mr. Robert Dunsmuir for their liberality and that we are of opinion that the extension of the line to Victoria will confer a great boon on the citizens thereof; resolved that a copy of this preamble and resolution be transmitted to the Dominion and Provincial Governments and the President of the E. & N. R. Carried.

COMMUNICATIONS

were read from R. T. Williams, asking permission to raise a building on Broad street. Referred to the Fire Wardens and building inspector.

From eight residents and property owners on Erie street asking for an improvement to sidewalk. Referred to Street Committee to report.

From Robert Williams, calling attention to the dangerous condition of a poplar tree overhanging the sidewalk near James Bay Bridge. Referred to Street Committee.

From John Jessop, urging that action be taken on the question of the city taking over the Mechanics' Institute Library. Referred to the City Hall Committee.

From St. Andrew's Society, requesting the loan of Jumbo to run the electric light apparatus at their picnic on July 4th. Granted on condition that society pay expenses.

From ratepayers occupying stores in the De Cosmos' block, Government street, calling attention to a dangerous verandah on the Chinese building, adjoining that property. Referred to Fire Wardens.

From A. De Cosmos, requesting that a flow of filthy water across city lot 593 be stopped. Referred to Street Committee and City Barrister to report.

BY-LAWS.

The by-law respecting the Municipal Assessment Roll, 1887, was read a second time.

Coun. Barnard thought the Assessment roll should be revised.

Coun. Grant said the revision of the roll would entail much more labor than should be placed upon any committee of the council.

Coun. Styles moved that the taxpayers be notified of the amount of their taxes before the sitting of the Court of Appeal.

Coun. Higgins said it was too late for any revision to be made this year.

Coun. Vigelius thought that as the taxes were the same this year as last notification was unnecessary.

The motion was carried.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

The Electric Light Committee reported against Mr. Pope Cox's propositions, recommending certain changes in the location of lights. Adopted.

CHURCH WAY.

The Street Committee reported recommending that the improvement of Church way be continued, and a passage way opened up from both sides, when $500 is paid by the property owners.

WATER WORKS.

The Water Committee submitted reports on the water works by Mr. Hendry and Mr. Mahood.

Coun. Grant said that as the Councillors had not had time to peruse the reports, he would move that they be printed and considered at the next regular meeting.

Coun. Braden asked on what authority Mr. Mahood had reported.

Coun. Grant explained that Mr. Mahood's report was practically a portion of Mr. Hendry's report.

Coun. Pearse said that if the Council did not take up the water works' question very soon, the city would be involved in law suits owing to the scarcity of water. He thought all the reports on the question should be placed in the hands of a competent engineer for a decision.

Coun. Braden blamed the Water Committee for delay. Mr. Pickering had examined Mr. Hendry's figures and had received $150 for his services. Mr. Bell had also reported in a similar manner, but on second consideration had reversed his decision. Now Mr. Mahood was asked to report on Mr. Hendry's scheme. He was satisfied that it was impossible to supply the city from a low reservoir. He thought Mr. Hendry and the Water Committee had humbugged the people.

Coun. Higgins said the Council came into office to push the water works scheme and had done nothing. Mr. Bell had condemned Mr. Hendry's scheme. Now Coun. Pearse wanted the plans turned over to another engineer. He was tired of constant delay.

Coun. Barnard thought some action should have been taken on Mr. Bell's report. As Mr. Bell disapproved of Mr. Hendry's scheme he did not think the Council should go ahead with it.

On motion of Coun. Pearse the reports were read.

Coun. Grant said the best endeavors of the Water Committee had been made to bring the water works improvements to completion. Coun. Braden's pet scheme was a new main. Obstacles had been thrown in the way of the Water Committee from the start. If the Council adopted Mr. Bell's proposition to tap the main on Douglas street it had not the power to make the necessary expenditure. The statement that the Council had been humbugged by the Water Committee was without a shower of fact. The committee had endeavored to carry out the scheme as it had been placed before the ratepayers.

The motion was carried.

His Worship said Coun. Braden's reference to humbug came with very bad grace and—

Coun. Higgins called His Worship to order.

His Worship—Will you take your seat?

Coun. Higgins—I appeal from His Worship's decision and submit that he is out of order.

His Worship—Will you sit down? I know what I am talking about.

Cries of question! question!

Coun. Vigelius—It is not fair for His Worship to be interrupted in this manner.

Coun. Higgins—His remarks are outside the question.

Coun. Vigelius demanded a fair hearing for His Worship.

Coun. Braden—You are out of order.

His Worship—Sit down.

Amid the disorder which ensued the Water Committee's report was adopted and the council adjourned.

SUPREME COURT.

Action for Libel Against Mr. D. W. Higgins, of the Colonist.

(Before Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J.)

Walkem vs. Higgins—This was an action brought by George Anthony Walkem, Judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, against David W. Higgins, editor and proprietor of the Colonist, for the publication of a libel. The damages claimed were $10,000. Mr. Drake, Q. C., appeared for plaintiff, and T. Davie, Q. C., for the defence.

The following jurymen were called and sworn: Mr. McNish, Rout Harvey, W. J. Armstrong, (challenged), Jas. Lawson, Chas. A. Vernon, (challenged), Jas. D. Mann, Allan Glendenning, (challenged), John Kinsman, (challenged), Phillip Johnson, (challenged), Geo. Gillispie, (challenged), Wm. Bullen, Francis Page, Robert Letice, Sidney J. Pitts, (challenged), John Teague. Mr. Harvey was chosen foreman.

Mr. Drake, in opening his case, put in the statement of claim which set forth that he, the plaintiff, was Premier and Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, Attorney General, and a member of the Executive Council of the government of this province from June 20th, 1878, until June 12th, 1882, and that ever since he had been a Judge of this Court. Also, that as Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works he had contracted on behalf of the government with Francis Bernard McNamee, Anthony Gilbert Nish, and James Wright for the construction by them of the Esquimalt dry dock in consideration of the sum of $350,997.20. In reference to this contract or subsequent contracts on the dry dock the following libelous statement appeared in the Colonist of November 20th, 1885: "six of them were in partnership (in the dry dock contract) one of whom was the Premier of the Province." The Premier of the Province at the time referred to was the plaintiff.

After reading the statement of claim counsel for the defence proceeded to show that everything which can be shown to be disparaging to the character of another is a libel. There were, however, cases, as in the printing of court, parliamentary or legislative proceedings, in which publications are privileged, but in this case privilege has not been claimed. The only defence was that the libel was copied from another paper. The article in question, however, made no reference to any other paper. The article was published as a matter of knowledge and therefore the defence, that it was copied from another paper, was inadmissable. Mr. Higgins' defence then was that he copied it from another paper as a matter of news and in the discharge of his duty as a journalist. But he had practically pledged himself to the truth of the report. Anyone reading the article would have thought that he copied from a court document or that he had the information from a reliable correspondent, for he adds a comment saying: "If the statement had been made off the stand it would have been immediately scouted as untrue." In that sentence he pledged himself to the truth of the information. Counsel here explained that in 1882 there had been a great deal of discussion on the dry dock question and a committee of the House was appointed to enquire into the matter. Before that committee Mr. Walkem was examined. The gist of the libel was that Mr. Walkem had used his position as a public official to engineer a contract with a McNamee & Co., through the government, in which he had a direct interest and for his own personal gain. So foul a libel on a judge of the Supreme Court, and one who had been a public official, could not be allowed to pass lightly. Nothing had been done to make a reparation for the publication of the libel. The charge was simply that of swindling while the plaintiff was a premier of the province. A judge could not enter into a newspaper controversy and this action was compelled. Mr. Higgins, when publishing the libelous article, had the files of his late papers before him, as well as seasional papers to which he could easily have referred, or he could have telegraphed to Mr. McNamee and have asked him if he had given expressions to such words as were accredited to him. But the defendant had rather preferred to give currency to the report which he says he found in another paper. The note at the foot of the article, which Mr. Higgins called a favorable comment, simply added a sting to the libel. The claim by the defendant that he published the libel in discharge of his duty as a journalist was disproved and had to fall to the ground.

Mr. Helmcken, assisted by Mr. Drake, here read a deposition by Mr. McNamee, which stated that he (the witness) had read the article published in the Colonist which purported to be a report of his evidence before the Supreme Court of Canada, and denied that he had used the words therein accredited to him. He denied also having said that the plaintiff had any interest in the dry dock contract, or that he had said that of the six contractors for the dry dock that "one of them was Premier of the Province." Witness being asked as to the truth of the report published by the Colonist said it was neither a full, truthful or accurate report. Mr. McNamee also testified that he had seen the defendant at the Windsor hotel, Montreal, and that he had a conversation with him about the matter. He (Mr. Higgins) said the article had been copied from the Ottawa Free Press, and that he had never seen it till it appeared in his paper. Witness understood that it was put in by some of his men. The defendant said if he had seen the denial which McNamee had given to the report he would have published it.

W. S. Gore, Surveyor-General, sworn: Produced contracts between the government of B. C. and McNamee, dated February 20th and October 20th, 1880.

D. M. Eberts, sworn: Produced articles of partnership between McNamee, Nicholson and Wright and others, dated 20th August, 1880.

G. A. Walkem ascended the Judges' stand and was sworn: I am a Judge of the Supreme Court of the province. I held various public positions prior to 1882, viz., Premier, Attorney-General, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works and a member of the Executive Council. Produced a contract drawn up by witness at Montreal in February, 1880, and signed by McNamee, McNish and Wright, in which they, as the lowest tenderers, received the contract for the construction of the Esquimalt dry dock. In June notice was given to the contractors to proceed with the work of construction. On the 4th of October a second contract was drawn up. The contract was executed for the purpose of bringing the work under legislation passed by the Dominion House in the spring of 1880. I had, as Mr. McNamee has already stated, no interest in that contract. I do not believe McNamee would be dishonest enough to make such a proposition to me. Produced a copy of the Colonist, dated November 20th, 1885, which I purchased at the Colonist office, also a copy obtained at the library. The language of the Colonist was compared with that of a copy of the Post which had been sent to me by a friend through the mail. The language of the report in the two papers did not exactly agree and consequently thought the report must be true. A comment appeared in the article in the Colonist, stating that as the information published above had "been made under the sanctity of an oath it could not be lightly passed over. I felt greatly humiliated and telegraphed at once to Mr. McNamee, giving the report concerning me published by the Colonist and Post, and asking him if he had thus perjured himself. A reply was received from a clerk stating that Mr. McNamee was not at home. About a month afterwards a telegram was received from Mr. McNamee denying positively that he had said under oath that he the witness was one of the contractors for the construction of the dock. In reply to a letter a similar answer was received. When in politics myself and Mr. Higgins were not on friendly terms, neither were we when this article was published.

His Lordship remarked that the questions were whether the report was derogatory or was it false, and if so was it privileged or justifiable.

Mr. Drake—It is not claimed that it was privileged.

Cross-examined by Mr. Davie—Produce a copy of the Ottawa Free Press, dated November 9th. The report published in the Post is the same I think as what is published in this paper. Do not know as a matter of fact that Mr. McNamee made a correction of the report in the Ottawa Citizen of the 16th December. (Paper with correction produced.) I was not aware that this correction had been made.

Mr. Davie asked to put the copy of the Citizen in as evidence.

The judge said this could not be done. He had allowed the defence every latitude. As this was an action in which a judge came into court to secure a vindication of character he had acted as he would have done under no other circumstances. The defence had put themselves out of court, but under the circumstances he had said, take your order. To put in this paper which neither the plaintiff nor defendant had ever seen was mere trash.

Mr. Davie—I must say your lordship's remarks are highly prejudicial to the defendant.

His Lordship—They may be, but they are in the interests of justice.

Mr. Davie—I consider when a judge of the Supreme Court comes into court as a party to a suit he should be placed in the position of any other person.

His Lordship—Well, I have differed from you and I consider it no disgrace.

By noting his objection Mr. Drake consented to have the copy of the Citizen put in.

Cross-examination continued—I sent no communication to Mr. Higgins respecting the case before I brought this suit. I considered the article a challenge to me to bring the suit. Witness here was questioned as to what steps had been suggested for the settlement of the case. He replied that his solicitors had refused certain propositions because there was no offer to publish a retraction or apology by the defendant.

Mr. Davie asked to put in certain documents.

Mr. Drake objected as there was no knowing where this kind of thing would stop.

His Lordship—Are there any documents, Mr. Davie, in the registry office that you do not wish to put in?

Mr. Davie—Your Lordship is certainly very facetious.

His Lordship ruled the documents were inadmissable.

Cross-examination—I disagreed with Mr. McNamee's statements in a letter because they were untrue. About the only true statement was that I had no interest in the contract. I held the Lytton Assize in 1884 and 1885.

Mr. Davie—A complimentary address was presented to you on that occasion.

Witness—Yes.

Mr. Davie, producing a copy of the Colonist of October 24th, 1884,—Will you kindly read it?

Mr. Drake—My Lord, I must object.

His Lordship—What in the world has a complimentary address to Mr. Walkem in 1884 to do with the question as to whether this report was false and derogatory of its publication justifiable?

Mr. Davie—It is implied that there was malice in the publication of the article.

His Lordship—There is malice implied in all libels.

Mr. Davie also produced another copy of the Colonist in which personal mention was made of Mr. and Mrs. Walkem being held in "high esteem by the people of Kamloops."

All evidence of this kind was refused by the Court.

TRADE IN MANCHESTER.

MANCHESTER, June 29.—The Guardian's commercial articles says the business of yesterday was light. Experience encourages perseverance in the short time movement which is spreading. The slackness of the demand for yarns for home consumption indicates that the current supply is abundant; offers for India staples do not improve; native dealers are less inclined to purchase than last week, even at low rates. For minor foreign markets there is some demand, but it does not increase. The efforts of producers to get better prices in consequence of the advance in cotton succeeded but poorly, although yesterday's business indicated an increase in spirit. Bundled yarn for Japan is in slightly improved demand, and there have been a few purchases for China, India and for other foreign markets.

GEN. BOULANGER.

PARIS, June 29.—The newspapers assert that General Boulanger was unaware of the government's intention to appoint him to the command of the thirteenth army corps until he saw the announcement of his actual appointment in the press. The statement is reiterated that the appointment was made for the express purpose of getting Boulanger away from Paris during the national fetes and the review in July lest his presence should tempt the people into a demonstration in his favor and against Germany. The police have confiscated the entire issue of the picture representing Boulanger as "Ivor France" pro.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The World this a. m. says that Cyrus W. He now has no interest in Manhattan and will retire from the board. Gould will keep 50,000 to add to his own holding making his total 10,000,000 which he will split up in blocks of 20,000.

NEW TREATY.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 30.—A new customs tariff and reformed International revenue system will go into effect Friday. The new tariff is regarded as a great improvement and is likely to stimulate trade with the United States. A new postal treaty with the United States becomes operative on Friday and by it American merchants may easily build up a solid trade as the law permits packages of merchandise to come in subject to exemption from customs.

HOPE NEWS.

Our Educational System—Loyalty of Hopeians.

Men live in the work they have accomplished for the world long after the body has been consigned to the dust and the soul gone to God who gave it. Of this, we have again had indubitable evidence, while attending an examination of the school under the management of Miss McDougall, in the town of Hope, June 17th.

About nine o'clock the children, very neatly and carefully attired, were all in their places ready for the morning routine. While the pupils went through the different subjects under consideration in a manner that showed a general knowledge and a clear understanding of what they were doing, I could but think of the great boon conferred on our fair Dominion by the chief superintendent of education (the late Dr. Ryerson) whose admirable school system is most thorough, complete and well adapted to meet the wants of every locality, irrespective of size or population. The benefit of our nation, whether considered physically, mentally or morally, what accrues through the life work of this late public benefactor, wisely administered by judicious and faithful teachers, is beyond computation.

To take the child in its crude state,
And mould with plastic hand,
Direct the thought impress the mind,
Like foot prints in the sand,
With all that's noble, just and good,
Is counting more than "Norman blood."

We would recommend for the town of Hope as well as for other places similarly situated an evening school or mutual improvement society, for young men who have time on their hands and in this way might turn it to good account, and be interested as well as profited.

There are hearts in Hope loyal to Britain and to Britain's Queen as indicated by the Union Jacks floating in the breeze on the 24th of May, and other special days. All honor to our beloved Sovereign who has graced and adorned the British throne for half a century and while we render all the love and honor due we are only complying with the scripture mandate, "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's," and while we are not forgetful of our national duties let us bear in mind our moral obligation to "Render unto God the things that are God's."

TWENTY YEARS UNDER CONFEDERATION.

With to-morrow morning's sun the Dominion of Canada will have completed the twentieth year of its existence. The dead-lock which had taken place in the legislature of the country in Quebec in the early part of 1864 was but the prelude to the burying of the political hatchet between the (then) Hon. JOHN. A. MACDONALD and the Hon. GEO. BROWN, and the conferences which were held in Quebec and in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. So far as Upper and Lower Canada were concerned a period had been reached when neither of the contending political factions could any longer administer in a satisfactory manner the affairs of the country. Ministerial crises followed each other in rapid succession until at last the dead-lock had been reached. Mr. BROWN always advocated the federation of the British North America provinces whilst Mr. MACDONALD favored a legislative union. A committee of the House reported adversely to the legislative system a few weeks prior to the exciting period that had so suddenly been reached in our history. Mr. BROWN was waited upon by the Hons. JOHN A. MACDONALD and ALEXANDER T. GALT with the result already known. To their credit be it said these great patriots sank political differences for the benefit of the whole country and are well entitled to be styled the "fathers of confederation." The first meeting was held on the 17th of June, and on the 22nd the basis of the coalition were announced to Parliament. All parties agreed that nothing but the extreme urgency of the case, and the hope of permanently settling the sectional question could justify such a union as was now consummated. The cry then went forth that the North American provinces should be united under a general legislature based upon the Federal principle. It is hardly a figure of speech to say that Parliament and the whole country were electrified at hearing the announcement that GEORGE BROWN and JOHN A. MACDONALD had agreed to sit side by side in the same cabinet. Naturally there were wide divergences of opinion on the subject—many to this day believe the union to have been an unholy one politically, and that no permanent good will result therefrom. The Canadian cabinet was speedily reconstructed, Messrs. BROWN, MOWAT and MACDOUGALL becoming members thereof. Mr. MACDONALD now became one of the ablest advocates of the joint authority principle. His friends have claimed for that gentleman that it was here his conservatism ended and his reform began. For a time he consented to be buried, but none can say that on any given question his finality of that period was not his standing point at a later date. With the exception of the Hon. WILLIAM MACDOUGALL all the ministers who had appealed to their constituents for an endorsation of their conduct in accepting office under such a coalition, were re-elected. The late Sir M. C. CAMERON defeated Mr. MACDOUGALL in North Ontario, who, however, shortly thereafter found a seat in North Lanark, where the sitting member resigned in his favor.

The business of the session over, arrangements were made for a conference in Charlottetown, P. E. I., which was held on the 10th of October. The Canadian delegation comprised the Hon. Messrs. MACDONALD, BROWN, CARTIER, GALT, MCGEE, LANGEVIN, MACDOUGALL, CAMPBELL. Nova Scotia was represented by the Hon. Messrs. TUPPER, HENRY, MCCULLY, DICKEY and ARCHIBALD. New Brunswick sent the Hon. Messrs. TILLEY, JOHNSON, STEEVES, CHANDLER, MITCHELL, GRAY (one of the Supreme Court Judges) and FISHER. Prince Edward Island's representatives were the Hon. Messrs. GRAY, PALMER, POPE, MACDONALD, W. E. AN, COLES and HAIRLAND. Newfoundland was likewise represented in the Hon. Messrs. CARTIER and AMBROSE SHEA. The sessions were held with closed doors. So harmonious were its proceedings that Nova Scotia and New Brunswick agreed to throw in their lot with Upper and Lower Canada, which they did in 1867. Prince Edward Island joined latter on. Newfoundland as yet holds aloof.

In the interim between 1864 and 1867 a great many changes in the completion of the cabinet took place. Mr. MOWAT was appointed to the Vice Chancellorship of the Upper Canada Court of Chancery, his place being filled by Mr. N. F. HOWLAND. Mr. BROWN also withdrew, and he in turn was succeeded by the Hon. A. J. FERGUSSON-BLAIR. Still the work of confederation of the several provinces progressed. Public feeling now became ripe on the question, and the resolution moved in parliament that an humble address be presented to HER MAJESTY, praying that she would be graciously pleased to cause to be submitted to the Imperial Parliament for the purpose of uniting the Colonies of Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island in one government * * based on certain resolutions already agreed upon" was carried in the assembly by a vote of 91 to 33 and in the Legislative Council by 45 to 15. On the 18th of March, 1865, the Hon. Messrs. MACDONALD, BROWN, CARTIER and GALT proceeded to England to promote the scheme of Confederation.

In Nova Scotia and New Brunswick serious opposition to the project began to manifest itself in the return of members to the Legislatures of these provinces hostile to Confederation. Newfoundland went so far as to entirely repudiate and ignore the action and presence of Messrs. CARTIER and SHEA at the Charlottetown conference.

The troubles occasioned by the Civil war across the borders were at their zenith. To maintain a friendly relation between our neighbors and ourselves was no child's play. The resources and ingenuity of the Imperial authorities were taxed to the utmost, and on more than one occasion the relations became somewhat strained, notably so in the Trent affair and the Fenian raids at Fort Erie in 1866. Every encouragement was given the Canadian delegates by the Imperial Government and concurrence in their plans. There was no desire to coerce the Maritime Provinces into accepting Confederation against their will—their right to accept or reject the new state of existence being recognized by all parties concerned. The wisdom of such a policy became afterwards apparent for these provinces loyally fell into line. But there can be no question that the assembling at different points on the frontier of a marauding horde of the Fenian brotherhood—comprised largely of discharged Union soldiers—had the effect of cementing the feeling in favor a Canadian nationality.

The 1st of July, 1867, had been selected as the birthday of the Canadian confederacy. On that day the basis of a political alliance between Upper and Lower Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, which had been some time previously proclaimed was this day consummated by the proclamation of the British North America Act, the provisions of which had then become operative. That act provided that the provinces already named should be counted in one and known hereafter as the Dominion of CANADA. Each of the provinces were named, as well as the basis of representation settled and a new constitution formed.

The auspicious day—the natal one of the Dominion—at last arrived. The royal proclamation made many movements, amongst others that of the Cabinet as it then existed:

Hon. J. A. Macdonald, Premier and Minister of Justice.
Hon. Alexander Campbell, Postmaster-General.
Hon. A. J. Fergusson-Blair, President of the Privy Council.
Hon. W. P. Howland, Minister of Inland Revenue.
Hon. A. T. Galt, Minister of Finance.
Hon. G. E. Cartier, Minister of Militia and Defence.
Hon. J. C. Chapais, Minister of Agriculture.
Hon. H. L. Langevin, Secretary of State for Canada.
Hon. S. L. Tilley, Minister of Customs.
Hon. Peter Mitchell, Minister of Marine and Fisheries.
Hon. A. G. Archibald, Secretary of State for the Provinces.
Hon. Edward Kenny, Receiver-General.

The government as thus constituted appealed to the country in Sept. 1867. The contest was a bitter one. There were no defined issues beyond the union and anti-union cries, and a desire to condemn the coalition which still existed as an immoral one from a political stand-point. The administration composed 5 members from Ontario, 4 from Quebec and 2 each from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The ministry and a majority of its friends were sustained at the polls in that contest. It was then felt that the turning point had at last been reached and that the country must now go on and prosper. The union was bound to be productive of good and the beginning of a new era had dawned upon the country.

The elections of 1867 brought to the surface a large number of new men who afterwards became famous as politicians, administrators and jurists. Each of the five provinces in this respect put forth its best men. The list of names would present a galaxy of talented men, whose names will be handed down to posterity as those worthy of imitation by coming generations. The local legislatures in each of the provinces were at this period established. The whole machinery created in connection with the birth of confederation was set in motion, each province standing out in the race of independence and with a determination to achieve great fame. The cog-wheels of the weaker provinces had not been long in operation until it became evident that grease and a substantial lubricant in the shape of an increased subsidy became a necessity. The present government yielded, and from that day to the present frequent appeals have been made at the doors of the treasury for further aid. It is not necessary here to state that these appeals are invariably granted—especially so if the vote of the representatives of the particular province asking aid is contingent on the favor being acceded to. The early years of Confederation were devoted by the government towards completing working details for the future government of the country and the bringing into the family fold of outlying provinces and the acquisition of the great Northwest. In 1869 the purchase of the Hudson Bay Company's rights in the Red River country and Prince RUPERT's land. The basis of purchase and surrender were completed in 1869. But when an effort was made to take possession of the country in 1870, the historical Red River rebellion broke out. In a few months the turbulent spirits there were subdued, and on peace being restored that country began to prosper.

About this time negotiations with British Columbia were so far advanced that it became almost a certainty that a union would also be formed between this province and the Dominion. In 1871 the happy event was consummated, and British Columbia, on receiving the assurance that a line of railway would be built across the continent, connecting the tide waters of British Columbia with the railway system of Eastern Canada, would be completed inside of a period of ten years, became politically allied with the east. The Washington Treaty was also negotiated this year. The government now set itself to work in earnest to complete its arrangements for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The summer of 1872 brought about another general election. During its progress the question of the construction of a Canadian transcontinental railway was the pivot question before the electors. The Washington Treaty was also discussed from every platform. It was during this contest that the several members of the government appealed to Sir HUGH ALLAN for monetary advances wherewith to carry on the contest and which lead to the Pacific. Scandal revelations, and the resignation of the Conservative government, in November, 1873.

Prince Edwards Island joined the Confederation in 1872. Her first delegation was composed of some excellent men able to hold their own as parliamentarians and debaters with any in the Dominion—proving themselves to be the peers of the best men in the House of Commons, and have so continued since that period.

From 1873 to 1878 the government of Mr. MACKENZIE continued the work of completing the Canadian Pacific. During its regime the surveys were completed and the line finally located in this province and tenders for the construction of the line from Emory to Savona's Ferry called for. In the east the Emerson-Selkirk division was completed, as well as the main line from Fort William to English river—a distance of 120 miles—and from Red river at Selkirk east to Cross Lake, and from Rat Portage to Eagle river. The remaining sections in that division were ready to be put under contract. From Pembroke westwards substantial progress was also made.

The basis of union with the Maritime Provinces was the completion by the Dominion of the Intercolonial railway, extending from River du Loupe, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, below Quebec, to the Atlantic seaboard, and through Canadian territory. The government now set to work in earnest to complete the undertaking. A route had been selected, following the river and gulf shore into New Brunswick. By this route it was claimed that many millions had been unnecessarily spent, as it could have been shortened by several hundred miles. The line, however, was completed, and the union between the upper and lower provinces became a reality.

Throughout the whole of Mr. MACKENZIE's reign a period of severe commercial depression prevailed all over the world, and from its effects Canada was not wholly exempt. The most bitter enemy of that government to-day will admit that the Canadian Government was not responsible for the commercial thalaria which existed in the neighboring Republic and beyond the great seas. The agitation now set in for an increase in the customs duties. A National Policy for Canada many believed to be the panacea for our commercial troubles and the stagnation which existed in many quarters. The election on the 17th of September, 1878, attested the fact that the majority were anxious for a change in our fiscal policy as by their votes at the polls they returned those favoring a change in that respect—a result which was a disappointment not only to the MACKENZIE Government and its supporters, but also to the Conservatives, who had not counted upon a victory. This was the first occasion in which the people had spoken through the ballot box. There could be no mistaking their voice or what was meant by it, for in 1882 the same sentiments were expressed as they were also on the 22nd of last February, again reaffirming the principle of protection to our native industries.

On the Conservatives assuming control of power in 1878, they devoted themselves towards pefecting the new tariff regulations which were submitted to Parliament in March, 1879. It was found that the government had even conceded more than was asked for in the protection line. This out of the way attention was then given to the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Welland Canal, and other public works in progress. The famous syndicate contract for the building of the national highway was ratified in the spring of 1881. Other portions of the line had been placed under contract previous to this, however, for the OMNIBUS contract in this province was in progress as well as two between the Red River and Lake Superior. The Canadian Pacific Railroad Syndicate set vigorously to work and by fall had completed the line as far as Brandon. But the big work was accomplished in the following year. At last, on the 17th of November, 1885, six years interim, the time specified in the contract, a train was run from Montreal to Port Moody and the great undertaking—the greatest one in modern days—completed, and regular daily traffic established in this province, from ocean to ocean, on the 4th July, 1886. Traffic to and from Winnipeg, by way of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railway, began in the spring of 1879. The successful construction of the Canadian Pacific was alone a work of which any nation should be proud. But when undertaken and completed by a population of less than four and a half millions, the marvel is truly phenomenal.

Since 1867 the progress made in each of the provinces has been wonderful. It is doubtful if any other country to-day can be found to parallel the strides made by the Dominion as a whole. Quite true it is that the national debt is a large one, but the recuperative power of the country is believed to be equal to any emergency which may arise in this respect. Political rumblings have been [illegible] rebellion has broken out in one of the provinces on two occasions, notwithstanding which, peace and prosperity is still to be found in these provinces.

The outlook for the future is somewhat hazy. But if wise men, guided by prudence and good judgment, are at the helm of affairs, there is a reasonably good hope that the next twenty year mile post reached will mark an even greater ratio of progress than we have witnessed in the past. As to our own province the long looked-for railway era has set in. Notwithstanding the shabby treatment meted out to us by the Dominion Government—which its own friends now assert to have been positively scandalous—the province will continue to prosper. We have much to be thankful for in the shape of natural resources possessed by none of the other provinces. It rests with our own people whether they will appreciate their position and prove themselves equal to the occasion and take advantage of the favors the Almighty has showered upon us with no sparing hand.

Looking back over a period of twenty years the writer finds that there is still much to be accomplished in the way of building up a national sentiment and spirit of loyalty for our own country. We should exercise a profound respect for our own Canadian flag, for under its unfurlings the country has made astounding strides in arts and science, trade and commerce. Sentiment is said to be God's best gift to a nation. Nothing but sentiment has made sterile and sparsely populated Scotland a land to be proud of. Sentiment has made Switzerland a land of freedom amidst a group of despotisms. The same feeling has made Great Britain the centre of the greatest empire on earth. Sentiment has made the United States the nation she is. In Canada it is still wanting. This should not be so—for Canadians have much at which to rejoice:

Let other tongues in other lands,
Loud vaunt their claims to glory,
And point in triumph to the past,
Content to live in story;
But we without baronial halls
Or castellated towers,
Can dearly love our native land,
This Canada of ours.

We boast instead our forests free,
And fields of golden grain;
Our mighty floods, our noble hills,
And many a fertile plain;
For Nature with no sparing hand
Her richest bounty showers
Thro' all this broad Dominion,
This Canada of ours.

We love those far off ocean isles,
Where England's monarch reigns,
We'll ne'er forget 'tis British blood
That courses through our veins,
The glories of our free-born sires,
The race that never cowers,
Extend prophetic lustre o'er
This Canada of ours.

Sight and Smell of Birds.

A hawk can spy a lark upon a piece of earth almost exactly the same color at twenty times the distance it is perceptible to a man or dog; a kite soaring out of human sight can still distinguish and pounce upon lizards and field mice on the ground; and the distance at which vultures and eagles can spy out their prey is almost incredible. Recent discoveries, and especially Darwin's observations, have inclined naturalists to the belief that birds of prey have not the acute sense of smell which they were once accredited. Their acute sight seems better to account for their actions, and they appear to be guided by sight alone, as they never sniff at anything, but dart straight at the object of their desire. Their counterparts in the ocean, however, undoubtedly see and smell equally well, but are more guided by smell than sight. In both sharp sight and keen scent the eyes are good, and have a most distinct expression; though since they scent their prey from a distance, and swim up to it with great rapidity, "smell," as Lacepede says, "may be called their real eye."—Chambers' Journal.

Spices from Ceylon.

About one-quarter of the whole 25,000 square miles of Ceylon is under cultivation, and the principal products are cocoa, rice, cinnamon, nutmegs, other spices, cinchona, coffee and tea. There has within the last nine years been a most wonderful increase in the amounts of some of these products exported. In 1878 only 25,000 pounds of tea were exported, as against nearly 4,500,000 pounds in 1885, and nearly 8,000,000 in 1886. Cinchona bark, from which quinine is manufactured, has gone up from some 200,000 pounds exported nine years before to nearly 15,000,000 in 1886. The total number of cocoanuts raised on the plantations in a single year is approximated at nearly 700,000,000.—Colombo (India) Cor. Chicago Tribune.

Degenerated Spanish Onions.

"Spanish onions," said a street dealer to a reporter, "are about the only tropical fruit or vegetable that will not succumb to the wiles of the northern gardener. The Long Island hot house owners have for years tried to reproduce this very desirable variety of the onion, but they have given it up as a hopeless task. The only outcome so far is a degenerated species, unequal in flavor to the poorest northern variety. Strange as it may seem, the seeds from the degenerate onion will, when planted in a tropical country, produce a perfect Spanish onion."—New York Sun.

Mr. Childs' Two Maxims.

George W. Childs has two maxims which stand him in good stead. They are: "Do the best and leave the rest," and "What can't be cured must be endured." These bits of philosophy and the habit of taking long walks keep Mr. Childs in a state of unruffled temper. He is a great pedestrian. He will not go anywhere in a vehicle if he can travel on foot. He walks from his town house to his office and back every day. As soon as he recovered from his recent fall he insisted on resuming his walks.—New York World.

Silk Raised in Utah.

About 17,000 pounds of silk cocoons, averaging $1 per pound, have been raised in Utah during the last year. The industry is still in its infancy, but the outlook is very flattering.—Chicago Herald.

Sign Wording in Pekin.

Sign wording has been reduced to a science in the land of the gentle Chinese. It is a common sight in the city of Pekin to see sign boards bearing inscriptions like these: "Shop of Heaven Sent Luck," "Mutton Shop of Morning Twilight," "The Nine Felicities Prolonged," "Flowers Rise to the Milky Way." A charcoal shop calls itself the "Fountain of Beauty," and a place for the sale of coals indulges in the title of "Heavenly Embroidery," and "The Thrice Righteous" is the cognomen of an opium shop.

His Future Career.

"And what do you expect to be when you grow up, Bobby," asked the minister, "a lawyer like your father?"

"No," Bobby replied. "Ma says I'm too much like pa to make a successful lawyer. I did think I'd be a drum major, but I guess I'll be a lion tamer."—New York Sun.

HOW TO BE WELL.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS FROM THE PEN OF A LITERARY ATHLETE.

Julian Hawthorne's Opinions Concerning the Care of the Body—Treatment of the Stomach—Keeping the Skin Clean. Out Door Air—Breathing.

You can improve your physical health and strength several hundred per cent. without ever touching a club or a dumb bell or pulling a weight. In fact, gymnasiums often do harm, for two reasons: first, because of the confined air; secondly, because those who attend them do not know what sort of work is best suited to them and are apt to overdo the work they undertake, thereby distorting themselves and sapping their vitality, an ounce of which is worth a ton of "muscle" in the long run. Too much muscle will shorten your life; but vitality is life itself.

The stomach, the skin and the lungs are the three essential things in a human being. So long as they are in perfect order, the finest professional gymnast can have little to teach you. To keep them in good condition, no gymnasium or gymnastic apparatus is required; still less any pepsin pills or sarsaparilla. You can do it all yourself, without altering your business or domestic habits, or putting yourself to any inconvenience. Quite the contrary. But it is extraordinary, the ingenuity some people show, when the choice is offered them between two things or courses, one healthy, the other unhealthy, but both equally available or easy—the diabolical certainty, I say, with which they fix upon that which is unhealthy. Whatever the metaphysical morals of the bulk of man and womankind may be, their physical morality often seems not far removed from total depravity.

THE NOBLE STOMACH.

Take the stomach first. How many of our average citizens can lay their hands upon the noble organ and swear that a week (I might well say, a day) passes in which they do not overload it with pie, pickles and candy? And how many gallons of strong—even green—tea and hot coffee per annum do they drench themselves with? As to mastication, regularity of meals, respect for the digestive processes, and so forth, I say nothing. After we have ceased to stuff ourselves with trash that has no more nourishment in it than sawdust, and is actively injurious into the bargain, we may begin to consider these more elevated subjects. We hear of crusades against alcohol; but I have no sympathy with a pie and candy eating and tea and coffee drinking man or woman who preaches temperance or abstinence let them first take the beam out of their own eye. A small quantity of alcohol administered at the right time, may do good; pie and candy and green tea never can. Abstain from such stuff entirely; never drink anything hotter than blood heat. Let your only condiments be salt and mustard, in moderation; eat butter sparingly, and cheese not at all; for breakfast and supper have bread and milk, oatmeal and eggs; for dinner, fresh meat and vegetables, between half a pint of soup and a couple of spoonfuls of light pudding.

AS TO DRINK.

As to drink, if you are thirsty, you can drink water; if the water is bad, take mineral water, with an occasional glass of pure ale or claret. Every five or ten minutes stop and ask yourself whether you have not had enough; and if you think you can get along with what you have eaten, do not take another mouthful. Never try to "tempt" your appetite; on the contrary, ask yourself whether you could, if necessary, make your meal on pure bread and water; and if the answer is in the negative, omit that meal and see how you feel at the next—but never eat between meals. If you ate only wholesome things, you could live and thrive on half the present bulk of your food. Starvation is the best cure for dyspepsia; pick me ups only keep it alive. After you have lived on reasonable food for a month or two, you will no longer be troubled with squeamish appetite. If any way practicable, you ought to have at least half an hour in the open air before sitting down to table; and at any rate wash your face and arms and chest in cool water. But I must leave the stomach here, with a hundred things still to be said about it.

CARE OF THE SKIN.

Now for the skin. Ninety-nine people out of 100 never think about their skin, though the health of all their internal organs depends upon its condition. It is no use washing your face and hands and leaving the rest of your body untouched. It is little better to stand in front of a basin and spatter yourself from head to foot with water. You must cleanse every part of your skin thoroughly once a day. I am no advocate of discomfort in bathing—cold water in a cold room, and all such nonsense. Have the room warm and the water only a few degrees cooler. Stay in the bath five minutes, keeping yourself either under water or pouring wet all the time. But it is after you leave the tub that the really important part of the bath begins. Dry yourself thoroughly with two towels; then take a stiff flesh brush and try with all your might to rub your skin off. A cocoanut fiber brush is the best; and to get at your back, it is a good plan to have a cocoanut fiber mat hung against the wall to rub yourself against. Keep up this friction for at least ten minutes. You could not invest the same amount of time more usefully. There is no such remedy for a feverish habit as this, nothing like it to relieve the internal organs from undue heat and congestion of blood and to free the lungs from oppression. Moreover, it actually increases the size of the muscles and makes them firmer, by causing the blood to circulate more vigorously in them. As to its effect upon the elasticity and beauty of the skin itself, that will be obvious at a glance.

THE FLESH BRUSH.

It is the brush, not the bottle, that furnishes the only true bloom of youth. But the morning bath and rub down alone are not sufficient; if, during the day, you let into a perspiration, do not allow the moisture to dry on your skin. Never come in from a walk or a horseback ride or a row and sit down as you are. Go to your room, take off everything and use the brush. It may seem inconvenient at first, but when it is done you will rejoice, and soon it will become a matter of course to you. If your underclothing is damp it is, of course, best to change it; but if the skin has been brushed red, you may venture to resume the same clothes with comparative impunity. This friction after exercise is of great importance; so much so that it may be affirmed that three-fourths of the benefit of any exercise is lost without it. If you foresee that it will be impossible, after your exercise, to take a rub down, then it will often be better to choose the rub down instead of the exercise.

A SUNDAY BATH.

Once a week—say on Sunday, when you have more time—you should take a bath of a more elaborate kind. Fill the tub with water as hot as you can bear it. Get in and stay there until you feel almost uncomfortably warm. Then stand up and take a big sponge or a pitcher full of cold water, and deluge yourself again and again from head to foot. This is delicious; there are few things that give so keen a sense of physical wholesomeness and vigor. Dry and rub down as usual, and you will imagine yourself ten years younger. The stimulus to the circulation is enormous. It is one of the best preventives against catching cold. It is an excellent substitute for the Turkish or hot air bath, and takes only a quarter of an hour. Do it often and it will often send it away. But be sure to have the hot water very hot, and apply the cold without stint.

FRESH OUT DOOR AIR.

As regards the lungs, the more fresh out door air you can get into them the happier and more comfortable you will be. But it is not enough to go out in the open air; you must learn how to breathe when you get there. Most people let year after year go by without once drawing a full breath. A quantity of impure air always remains at the bottom of their lungs, like bilge water in a ship; and it contaminates the whole system. If you will breathe properly, you may get more benefit from half an hour in your back yard than another person will from a twelve hours' dawdle at the seaside. It is a very simple matter; breathe slowly, and breathe in as much air as you can possibly get into your lungs. When they will hold no more, then emit your breath as deliberately as you took it in. Suppose you are walking at your usual pace along the street; draw in your breath while you are taking seven steps; emit it while you are taking the next seven, and so on. It will make you feel queer at first; but keep it up! After practicing this every time you go out for a week or two, you will be able to breathe in while you are taking eight or ten steps; and later on, even more. Then note the effects.

THE DELICIOUS EFFECTS.

After walking for quarter of an hour, at a leisurely pace, on a winter's day, you will find yourself warm enough to do without an overcoat. In half an hour you will be in a glow down to the tips of your fingers; in an hour you will feel as if your whole body had been vigorously exercised. And so it has. Take the measurement of your chest after a year of such practice and you will find it has increased in girth a matter of three inches. And your eyes will be brighter, your skin fresher, your stomach stronger, your muscles firmer—because you will have thoroughly aerated and oxygenized your blood. And you will have acquired the habit not only of breathing slowly and deeply while you are out walking or exercising, but of breathing in that manner all the time. And if you are called upon suddenly to escape over a plowed field from a mad bull you will find yourself able to do so without losing your breath—which might, in such a case, be tantamount to losing your life as well. I need scarcely say that all the breathing must be done through the nose, with the mouth shut. That comes hard at first, but it is worth while taking a great deal of pains about.

Observe these rules for a year and you will be twice the man or woman that you are now; and then you may begin to think about gymnastics.—Julian Hawthorne in Home Knowledge.

The Latest in Cameras.

It is the latest form of the detective camera—that which counterfeits a neat little hand sachel in appearance—that is the usual favorite just now, with women as with men. The machine can be had scarcely larger than the usual handkerchief receptacle, the size of the plate it carries being much less of an object than it used to be, since the recent perfection of the enlargement processes by permanent bromide prints. For tourists, and in all cases where the baggage is an object, the smaller the plate the better, and the best pictures can afterward be enlarged at home. The detective is focused and sprung on the instant, and is so quick in its action that I have seen a clear picture of the bed of a mountain brook—a much more difficult feat than photographing an object which is itself moving—caught from the window of a train at full speed.—Eliza Putnam Heaton in N. Y. Mail and Express.

The Art of Acting.

The actor ought never to let his part "run away" with him. It is false and ridiculous to think that it is a proof of the highest art for the actor to forget that he is before the public. If you identify yourself with your part to the point of asking yourself as you look at the audience, "What are all those people doing here?" If you have no more consciousness where you are and what you are doing—you have ceased to be an actor; you are a madman. And a dangerous madman too. Conceive Harpagon climbing the balustrade and seizing the orchestra by the throats, loudly demanding the restoration of his casket! Art is, I repeat, not identification, but representation.—Harper's Magazine.

A Physician's Plan.

Medical and other professional men often break down from their inability to keep a regular time for meals. An eminent doctor says: "Being often out for many hours, and becoming too exhausted to digest a full meal when at length able to get it, I conceived a plan which answered admirably well, and which other doctors have gladly adopted. I provided myself with a small bottle of lime water, which I added to a glass of milk when passing a dairy shop; or I put a small flask of the mixture in my pocket. A water biscuit with this will keep a man harmless on a long fast, and will enable him to digest a meal when he can obtain it."—Good Housekeeping.

Game Killed on the Rail.

A veteran engineer of the Erie railroad, in speaking of his experiences, said:

"You would be surprised to see the number of small animals and birds killed on railroads. It is surprising to see game which hunters find most difficult to catch meet death under the wheels of the oft-times slow going coal and freight trains. Woodchucks, skunks, snakes, nearly all kinds of squirrels, raccoons, and even the fleet footed rabbits and foxes are frequently run over.

"Telegraph wires are also death traps for winged game. Quail, partridges, woodcocks and smaller birds that are not game are often killed when flying in flocks by striking wires."—New York Sun.

Chased by Pirates.

After a midnight lunch on mince pie a South End citizen complained of having horrid dreams, in which he was chased by pirates. "Mince pirates, probably," calmly responded his wife.—Boston Transcript.

The Russian Empress' Life.

The Russian empress leads an active and simple life. She rises early and takes a great deal; goes to bed late; reads enormously, and, although she loves dress and dancing passionately, she busies herself at the proper times with works of charity. During the holidays she does not change her habits except by the distribution of alms and long sessions at church, which are more frequent than usual.—Chicago Tribune.

London Beggars.

The inventive faculty and originality of London beggars generally, and of blind London beggars in particular, are so feebly developed that a new departure made by a blind slim seeker of advanced age is worthy of notice. He had on the card he bore plastered on his chest the words: "Please bestow a glance and a copper on one who can return neither."—Chicago Times.

A half pint of water from the Croton aqueduct, New York, contains, according to the assertion of an eminent physician, 5,000 bacteria.

Rev. Dr. Cochrane.

This divine arrived from the mainland last evening. For several days he had been engaged on work in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada at Vancouver, New Westminster and elsewhere. It is five years since he last visited Victoria and is surprised at the great change that has everywhere taken place since then. To-morrow he will visit Nanaimo, returning in the evening. On Sunday it is expected that he will officiate in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in the morning. After the services in there he will assist the Rev. D. Fraser, M. A., in the First Presbyterian Church, Pandora street, in dispensing the Communion services. In the afternoon he will address the Sabbath school in that church, and in the evening conduct the services in the Reformed Church Humboldt street, for Bishop Cridge. On Tuesday morning he will proceed east via the C. P. R. filling engagements to preach and lecture in Regina, Portage la Prairie, Port Arthur and other places. The reverend gentleman has been pastor of Zion Church, Brantford, for over 26 years. His congregation is a large one, and by them he is highly esteemed. He is as active and energetic as he was a quarter of a century ago, and his presence is felt at all meetings of the Courts of the Church of which he is so distinguished a member. He is a guest at the Driard.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain. *

A Fighter.

Sam Greer, of Vancouver, to use a common expression, has considerable sand in him. On Monday, on receiving the news that the injunction against him was quashed, he cut down the company's wires running through his property. A repairer joined the break, and Greer cut them again. The connection was once more restored and again broken by Greer. The company's agent again attempting to repair the break, Mr. Greer cut down eleven poles as the surest way of settling the contention between himself and the repairer. The old line has been put in repair and will be used for the present. In the meantime, Sam is monarch of all he surveys, although we cannot add that there is none his rights to dispute.

B. C. M. & M. Co.

The latest reports from the British Columbia Milling and Mining Company's works are of the most encouraging character. The company's manager is experiencing some difficulty in not being able to secure the services of rockmen as helpers. With great reluctance he is compelled to hire Chinese. Good quartz men are scarce and in brisk demand. The outlook is regarded as extremely satisfactory. The ledge is now 22 to 25 feet in width and increasing in richness. Work at the mine and at the mill is being pushed vigorously by Mr. Craib, the company's manager. When more help can be procured by him cheering news may be expected from that section of Cariboo.

Dominion Day.

To-morrow being Dominion Day there will be no paper issued from this office.

A royal salute of 21 guns will be fired at 12:30 o'clock by No. 4 Battery, B. C. G. A.

The Victoria Athletic Club will give an exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, Beacon Hill, which will no doubt be largely patronized.

A large number are going to Vancouver by the Yosemite to-night. They will be allowed a stay there of five hours to-morrow, returning to Victoria in the evening. The day will be observed in the terminal city as a gala one.

The event of to-morrow no doubt will be the Methodist Sunday school excursion to Duncan's station in Cowichan. The fare is only $1 25 for the round trip. Cars are being expressly prepared for the occasion. The scenery en route is very grand. It is one of the most delightful trips that can be undertaken. It will be largely patronized by scholars, teachers, parents and others.

Police for Kootenay.

The Calgary Tribune of the 27th says: About noon to-day a special train arrived from the east having on board Major Steele and his detachment of fifty police, bound for the Kootenay district. They go by train to Golden City, where they take their horses and travel on horseback up the Columbia on the old pack trail about 175 miles to their destination. The officers are Major Steele, Inspectors Woods and Huot. They will remain in the district all summer and next winter

Matrimonial.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul have our best wishes for a long life of unalloyed happiness.

At the election for school trustees, Mr. A. Maguire was elected in South Cedar district. In Mountain district, W. S. Chandler, Dr. Walkem and J. Frame were elected, and at a meeting of the board Dr. Walkem was elected chairman and W. S. Chandler secretary.

SAANICH NEWS.

A Snug Little Legacy—Rev. Mr. Gregory to Resign.

The Rev. W. H. Gregory, who has labored so assiduously and acceptably in Saanich for the past four years, has announced his intention of leaving this for another field of labor. During their stay in this province the reverend gentleman and his estimable wife have made many warm friends who will sincerely regret their departure. They intend leaving the first of next year for their native town, Bristol, England.

It is reported that Messrs. Wm. and Jas. Miller, two young men who have resided in this community for some time, have received intelligence of the death of an uncle in Scotland who has bequeathed to each the snug little sum of $5000.

Work on the new road to the lime-kiln, owned by Messrs. Wrigleswerth & Co., has been prosecuted with considerable energy, and is now nearly completed. The opening of the road will doubtless greatly increase the local trade in lime, as farmers intend using large quantities for fertilizing, and by hauling direct from the kiln it can be obtained at a low figure. Mr. Dazell, one of the shareholders, has recently sold out his interest to Mr. Tierney, and departed for Southern California, where he intends growing oranges, etc.

There has been at night some sharp frosts of late, doing considerable damage to potatoes.

Haying has commenced, and the yield is fairly good. Grain crops would be greatly benefitted by rain.

Tony Cigars.

The Minister of Finance.

It is understood that Mr. J. H. Turner, M. P. P., for this city, will be appointed Minister of Finance for the province on the arrival of his partner from England, which will be in the course of a day or two. Mr. Turner has had the offer of the position in his possession for some time, but could not accept it until Mr. Beeton's arrival. The gentleman will have to appeal to his constituents for re-election. His opponent has not yet been named.

A Small Fire.

A fire occurred this morning at 5:30 on the premises occupied by Mr. Joe. Levy, Vancouver street, which is supposed to have originated from an ash heap near the woodshed. The alarm was promptly responded to by the fire department, and the fire was extinguished before any great damage was done. The shed, fences, etc., were destroyed, and at one time the house of Mr. Wm. Grimm was threatened, but it and the adjoining property was saved through the efforts of the volunteers who arrived first on the ground.

Chinese Squalor.

This morning Sanitary Officer Deasy routed out a Chinaman living in the Kwong Lee cabins in a wretched condition. The cabin contained a mass of rubbish, and the sleeping apartment was a cramped space, egress to which was obtained through a hole, a la dog fashion. Amongst the rubbish was concealed $160 belonging to the Celestial.

Attractions at Fulton Market.

Residents of the city, as well as visitors, should not miss the opportunity of visiting Fulton Market, Johnson street, where are to be seen a collection of monkeys, trained; speaking parrots, mocking birds, English thrushes, black birds and starlings, magpies, and many other species of the singing and feathered tribe. Tourists in want of souvenirs can do no better than give this place a call. *
